We would like to thank the following sponsors for their generous support:

John Brown: An Aging in Place Housing Option

John Brown is an Associate Professor of the Faculty of Architecture at the University of Calgary. His research explores new forms of aging-in-place housing. These single and multi-family residences can easily adapt to meet changing levels of physical and cognitive ability, chronic disease, and critical illness while still maintaining their essential domestic character and the agency of the resident.

Jody Barrett and Michelle Frank – Role of the Transition Coordinator and Transition Services in the Edmonton and Central Zones

A review of the role of Transition Services Program and Transition Coordinators in assessing and finding suitable living arrangements for individuals needing designated living options.

Pansy Angevine: Palliative Care in the Front Row

Pansy Angevine has taken her passion for nursing, palliative care, and volunteering and put them together to direct both her career and her life. As such, she currently works as Manager of Transitions, Specialty Programs and New Initiatives with Alberta Health Services in the Central Zone.

Dana Zawortny: Edmonton EMS Urgent Response Team ... What do we do?

Edmonton EMS Urgent Response Team is a team of NP's and Paramedics working together with specialty diagnostics on their ambulances to attend facility and supportive living sites with intent of being able to treat in place. The team provides IV antibiotics, hydration, urgent x-rays, bloodwork, or transport when needed. This innovative team another way that continuing care is trying to meet the needs of their clients and keep them "home".

Mentorship in Gerontology – Panel Discussion
